The centre of the park is dominated by a monumental statue on horseback of the Greek revolutionary leader Odoros Kolokotronis. It is one of the most important monuments in Athens.

It is made of a copper alloy and stands on a massive base. The statue is the work of the sculptor John of Mead. The cost for the acquisition of the statue was high, and a nationwide appeal was necessary to raise the 100,000 drachmas needed for its construction.

The statue was unveiled in 1901. A similar statue, by the same artist, can be found in Athens in front of the old palace of the King.
