

The "Trianon"

Written by Administrator

Monday, 31 January 2011 10:29 - Last Updated Monday, 03 December 2012 10:21

The building which is known locally as the Trianon, from the name of the cinema

It is the oldest mosque still surviving was strongly probably the second half of the 16th century. It date

It differs from the great mosque in Syntagma Square as in the latter the Ottoman style

The old mosque is square and is topped with a semicircular dome covered by three small domes, but o

The "Trianon"

Written by Administrator

Monday, 31 January 2011 10:29 - Last Updated Monday, 03 December 2012 10:21

During the time of the second Venetian occupation, the mosque was used for Catholic worship.

The "Trianon"

Written by Administrator

Monday, 31 January 2011 10:29 - Last Updated Monday, 03 December 2012 10:21

From the beginning of the 19th century, the town of Trianon was a small village. In 1859, the town was elevated to the status of a city. The town was named in honor of the Treaty of Trianon, which was signed in 1919. The town is located in the northwestern part of Romania, near the border with Hungary. The town is known for its beautiful architecture and its historical significance.

The exact location of the "Trianon" can be found in Section Map